Mentoring is not a new concept. It has been practiced throughout the ages, both informally and formally: informally, as in the relationship of Moses with Joshua, and formally, like Elisha with the school of the prophets. Jamie has written a dynamic mentoring program that combines both formal and informal methods of mentoring. It will guide women through the steps necessary to become effective mentors. In spite of the evidence throughout Scripture that mentoring is a God-given mandate, we hesitate to step up and accept the challenge to mentor. However, the Spirit of God is beckoning for us to take the challenge to mentor others. Won't you answer God's call to mentor!

- "Jamie's mentoring class could be titled "Developing a Closer relationship With Jesus 101." I learned a better way to pray and developed a habit of prayer.
